

Homelessness

Homelessness is when poor people don't have a place to stay, no shelter, no food, or even no place to lie down. If I could help out homeless people, I would. My plan would be to help them with food, and telling other people to help out.

Another way of thinking about homelessness is people not having enough money to have a home. So, they just live in an unsecure place. Homelessness is everywhere. Some people don't care about this, but it could happen to them, too. We need to take action like giving money to the homeless so they can help take care of themselves. It is also sad seeing homeless people out in the streets. I also feel bad because I think that they don't have a family that can help them.
