

Homelessness

People have been homeless in America for many years, and this has been going on throughout history. They don't have a home, food, or clothes. They have to suffer their whole life because they don't have money, or other things. This has to stop and we as a nation should stand together and help the homeless for their benefit so they can eat, and have a safe place to sleep. If it were you, you would want someone to help you.

Children miss school because of the situation they live in, and their parents can't do anything because they don't have any money. Homeless families suffer while we pass them by. NO MORE! We are able to help them. One simple donation of food or money can make a difference. Homelessness has been increasing. Every corner you turn, there's a person with a sign saying, "Help!"

There has to be something we can do about this. If we don't, homelessness will still be around when our great, great, great, great grandchildren are born. To avoid this, we have to make a difference. Homelessness is unacceptable. We need to work together to help our community. Things can no longer be the same, we should be able to help those in need.
