I know I can't vote, but if I could, I would vote for Barack Obama for President. He will help people who need money for their families. He truly believes in God, and he will do everything possible to be President. John McCain will not do as good a job as Obama because he will be just like Bush. Obama will make good change for our country. I know he will be there when the people need him. I pray he will be our President.
