A Night at the Silver Top

This photo documentary project focuses on the customers who frequent the diner, Silver Top in Providence, Rhode Island. The diner has been a fixture at the corner of Harris Avenue and Kinsley since the 1930s. During its heyday, the Silver Top would stay open 24 hours, feeding the city's factory workers on their way home from the third shift. In more recent years, it has opened after midnight and closed around dawn, catering to the after-the-bars-close crowd.

Black Square Interpretations

Kazimir Malevich's "Black Square" receives glitch treatment. The glitch treatment is the embellishment of "Black Square" in each case, and it could be argued that it is also the defacement of the same. Is this act of changing the appearance or surface of "Black Square" for better or worse, or does it matter? Would Malevich disapprove of these digital renditions since he once stated, "there's nothing more after "Black Square"?

http://tomrchambers.com/bs_embellished.html

Images of the Universe (courtesy of HubbleSite [http://hubblesite.org]) are used in combination with Kazimir Malevich's "Black Square" to confirm his (Malevich) interest in Astronomy and connection of his Suprematist work with the Universe. The "Space" images have been pixelated to show abstractions - configurations of pixels - running throughout the "Black Square" and beyond ("white abyss"). Malevich's "Black Square" becomes monolithic/monumental. Malevich called himself, "President of s(S)pace".

Black Square Desecration, Experimental Animation and Video Art Program, LINOLEUM International Contemporary Animation and Media-Art Festival, Ukraine, September 28 - October 1, 2017.

Kazimir Malevich's "Black Square" (1915) receives glitch treatment - perceived as "desecration" - and perhaps embraced by this Suprematist if he were alive today. Suprematism is based upon "the supremacy of pure artistic feeling" (sensation), and the kinetic glitch treatment enhances these emotions via pixel reconfigurations, the introduction of color fields and movement. The sound component complements the feeling. This video piece could be viewed as Neo-Suprematism.

http://tomrchambers.com/bsd.html

This project is a video/installation piece that moves Kazimir Malevich’s "Black Square" in the direction of Neo-Suprematism. It also simulates the evolution of the bar code system.

http://tomrchambers.com/beyond_bs.html

This project is a video/installation piece re: Kazimir Malevich's "Black Square" and "Red Square", both exhibited in 1915. They approximate being one and the same, but Malevich considered his "Black Square" to be the true icon - its zero form - for Suprematism. In Malevich’s system, the movement from black-and-white Suprematism to colored and finally to white Suprematism was indicated by three squares: a black, a red, and a white one. (Vitebsk, Aleksandra Shatskikh, 2007 [1917-1922])

The first time Malevich exhibited his "Red Square", in 1915, it was subtitled "Pictorial Realism of a Peasant in Two Dimensions". During the Vitebsk years, the representation of the "Red Square" was politicized. Lazar Lissitzky had a hand in this Bolshevization of the Suprematist figure. He turned the "Red Square" into the Unovis seal. However, Malevich and all the other Suprematist-Unovis members deemed the "Black Square" to be the true symbol of Unovis. (Vitebsk, Aleksandra Shatskikh, 2007 [1917-1922])

In the video, the sweeping of the color red acknowledges "Red Square" as a Suprematist figure, but there is always a return to the true icon, "Black Square" for Suprematism.

Note: this exhibition is in conjunction with the "100 Years of Suprematism" conference, Shapiro Center, Columbia University, New York City, December 11 - 12, 2015. It is organized in celebration of the centenary of Kazimir Malevich’s invention of Suprematism and the first public display of his Suprematist paintings in December, 1915. The two-day conference is organized in association with the Harriman Institute, the Lazar Khidekel Society, and SHERA. It features presentations by an international and renowned group of scholars. Among them are leading researchers in the field from the United States, Russia, and the United Kingdom. The event includes a presentation of "Kazimir Malevich: Letters and Documents, Memoirs and Criticism" (London: Tate, 2015).
Post Scriptum 100 + 8 (group show), One Month Gallery (OMG), Moscow, Russia, June 8 - July 8, 2015.

CaviArt Gallery (two-person show), The Russian Cultural Center, Houston, Texas, U.S.A., March 6 – April 7, 2015.

This project pays tribute to Kazimir Malevich through a series of artworks that interpret his "Black Square", and explore Suprematism. Chambers through his interpretations moves Suprematism in the direction of Neo-Suprematism. His artworks accentuate and cultivate non-objectivity - the supremacy of pure feeling in creative art.

Buddha Earth

Common Ground (Digital Art for a Healthy Planet) (group show) (Limited Edition Commemorative Book; all the book proceeds donated to these environmental non-profit organizations: The World Wildlife Fund, Global Giving, and the Global Environmental Institute.), Huan Tie Art Museum, Beijing, China, November 9 - 19, 2008.

Courtesy of Common Ground: bringing together art, technology and philanthropy to focus attention on - and raise money for - environmental projects worldwide; an online community of artists, designers, galleries, curators, art patrons, art institutions, art consumers and concerned corporate citizens; international touring exhibition and media events highlighting digital art in limited edition reproductions and commemorative books, all focused on the theme of environmental stewardship; a corporate sponsored, brand extension series of events that generates media coverage through artist and celebrity participation, with visibility on television, print media and on the Web; and through this visibility and art sales, awareness and funds for environmental stewardship projects.

Descendants 350

Rhode Island State Archives (solo show) (accepted by the Secretary of State as a part of the Rhode Island State Archives Permanent Collection), Providence, Rhode Island, U.S.A. 1991.

The Old Colony House (solo show) (sponsored by the Secretary of State's Office, Rhode Island), Newport, Rhode Island, U.S.A., 1988.

The State House (solo show) (sponsored by the Secretary of State's Office, Rhode Island; and received a Governor's Proclamation), Providence, Rhode Island, U.S.A., 1988.

The Roger Williams Park Museum (solo show) (sponsored by the City of Providence), Providence, Rhode Island, U.S.A. 1987.

This photo documentary project of Descendants of many of the First Settlers of Rhode Island pays tribute to the trials and tribulations that their Ancestors were subjected to during the early to middle 1600s. It offers a unique look and study of the State’s early history as it relates to images of Descendants (contemporaries) as icons or symbols to talk about their Ancestors’ (First Settlers’) contributions through text extracted from The Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island (and other sources). This project was funded by Providence 350, Inc. as a part of Rhode Island’s 350th Anniversary Celebration, 1986; and it received a Proclamation from Edward DiPrete, Governor of Rhode Island. Hometown

Hot City

This photo documentary project is based on Chambers’ coverage of Providence, Rhode Island as Personal Photographer to Mayor Joseph R. Paolino, Jr. and City Photographer during 1985 - 1989. The project received a grant from Rhode Island Hospital Trust National Bank; was accepted as part of the City of Providence Archives; received a Mayor’s Proclamation; and was listed in American Photo magazine, Notable Exhibitions section, July, 1989 issue.

In and Out

In Black and White

This photo documentary project comprises black and white photographs that focus on the Black community in Providence, Rhode Island. It is based on Chambers’ coverage of Providence, Rhode Island as Personal Photographer to Mayor Joseph R. Paolino, Jr. and City Photographer during 1985 - 1989. The project received a grant from The Rhode Island Black Heritage Society; and it was accepted as part of their archives.
Kites for Ghandhi

NMA@NID (group show), National Institute of Design, Ahmedabad, India, July 10 – 28, 2006.

This new media project involves Flash when Chambers was conducting a new media art workshop at the National Institute of Design in India. Kites are significant in India to rejoice in the spirit of the day and as a part of the Makar Sankranti Festival (change of season), and Mahatma Gandhi spent a portion of his life at an ashram (hermitage) near Ahmedabad. Chambers created this movie as an offering and out of respect for this philosopher and leader of the people.

Little Tommy

This new media project involves a photograph of Chambers taken around the age of two or so (1949-1950). The kinetic, glitch treatment addresses the mind attempting to grasp the far past - and extreme youth - but just can't get there in full, consequently, the break up of the short-lived image, over and over.

Mattie Oline: Thoughts of a Grandmother

Tales 'N' Trails Museum, Nocona, Texas, September 23 – October 27, 2017.

This project is a tribute to Chambers' grandmother, Mattie Oline (Battles) Meekins, 1899-1997. She kept a diary from 1948 through part of 1993. Chambers researched her entries over the years, and chose the ones that have significance for him and society. His grandmother rarely missed making a daily entry in her diary during 45-plus years - an astonishing 16,000-plus entries. Chambers was born in July of 1947, so her diaries were ongoing from when he was about six-months old through the age of 45. The entries are practical, heartfelt and country-bred.

His grandmother's handwriting is used to provide an immediacy - connection - with Mattie Oline. Notes are used to add more information. He hopes that his grandmother would understand why he has chosen to go public with some of her diary entries: to pay tribute to an individual who helped raise him; and to indicate his sense of longing for her presence. As a former educator, he also sees merit in using family diaries as educational tools.

Mexico: A Package Tour

This photo documentary project focuses on the people and environs of Taxco, Mexico.

Mother’s 45s

Parents (group show), Museum of Contemporary Art, Wright State University, Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. (selected through national competition), April 13 - May 14, 1992.

Gallery One (solo show), Providence, Rhode Island, U.S.A., April, 1990.

Photographs of Chambers’ mother are sequenced according to the chronology of her life, which spans almost 60 years (1925-1983). When the piece is viewed along with the songs his mother once listened to, the sound stimulus pulls the viewer from record to record (1 - 45), and this process has some interesting points: the maturation process of his mother is seen; the man who came into her life and eventually became her husband and his father is seen; the maturation process of her only child (him) is seen; the change in hair and fashion styles is seen; the change in automobile models is seen; and various locales throughout the United States are seen. This project (and its success) is the high point of Chambers' career for the simple reason that it involves and perpetuates his mother's existence.

My Dear Malevich

Note: this exhibition is in conjunction with the "100 Years of Suprematism" conference, Shapiro Center, Columbia University, New York City, December 11 - 12, 2015. It is organized in celebration of the centenary of Kazimir Malevich’s invention of Suprematism and the first public display of his Suprematist paintings in December, 1915. The two-day conference is organized in association with the Harriman Institute, the Lazar Khidekel Society, and SHERA. It features presentations by an international and renowned group of scholars. Among them are leading researchers in the field from the United States, Russia, and the United Kingdom. The event includes a presentation of "Kazimir Malevich: Letters and Documents, Memoirs and Criticism" (London: Tate, 2015).

CaviArt Gallery (two-person show), The Russian Cultural Center "Our Texas", Houston, Texas, U.S.A., March 6 – April 7, 2015.
Beyond the Borders (The Guest section) (group show), Novosibirsk Municipal Center of Fine Arts, Novosibirsk, Russia, November 3 - 21, 2010.

Homage: Contemporary Art in Digital Media (group show), Art Institute of California, San Diego, California, U.S.A., October 8 - November 8, 2010.

Art Gallery (solo show), Fine Arts Department, Zhaoqing University, Zhaoqing, China, April 2 - 15, 2007.

This homage to Kazimir Malevich is a confirmation of Tom R. Chambers' Pixelscapes as Minimalist Art and in keeping with Malevich’s Suprematism - the feeling of non-objectivity - the creation of a sense of bliss and wonder via abstraction. Chambers' action of looking within a portrait (photo) of Kazimir Malevich to find the basic component(s), pixel(s) is the same action as Malevich looking within himself - inside the objective world - for a pure feeling in creative art to find his "Black Square", "Black Cross" and other Suprematist works.

Nocona - The Early Years

Tales 'N' Trails Museum, Nocona, Texas, November 4 - December 31, 2017.

This selection of photographs provided by the citizens and now residing in the Permanent Collection of the Tales 'N' Trails Museum shows the early years of the community and surrounding areas. It puts a "face" and sometimes names to activities over a 100 years ago that were a formative influence. The text is extracted from TSHA (Texas State Historical Association) and other sources to provide as accurate a narrative as possible to reflect the mores and living conditions of the time. The original photographs were scanned by Mike Storey. The restorations, poster layouts, and research (text) are by Tom R. Chambers. The research was edited and approved by Nell Ann McBroom (Director/Curator, Tales 'N' Trails Museum) and Max Brown (Historian).

On the Streets of Austin

OTSA-1 and OTSA-2 (group show), Artworks Gallery, Austin, Texas, July 3 - August 7, 2021.

This show is the culmination of the “Street Photography and Documentary Portraiture” workshop at Precision Camera Education Center, Austin, Texas (June 5, 2021). Chambers taught the all-day workshop, and the participants' photographs were exhibited as “On the Streets of Austin” (Street Photography and Documentary Portraiture Workshop (2021) (edtecharts.blogspot.com)).

Once Upon a Strand

Galveston County Courthouse (solo show), Galveston, Texas, U.S.A., 1974.

This photo project focuses on the interiors of the buildings on the Strand in Galveston, Texas. It is a National Historic Landmark District of mainly Victorian era structures that now house restaurants, antique stores, and curio shops. Because of the Port of Galveston’s enormous vessel traffic, the Strand became a popular place for major businesses to locate, including the state's five largest banks at the time, wholesalers, commission merchants, cotton brokers, attorneys and slave auctioneers.

People and Cultures

The Roger Williams Park Museum (solo show) (grant - City of Providence), Providence, Rhode Island, U.S.A. 1987.

People to People

Kumho Art Center (two-person show) (accepted as part of the Kumho Art Foundation Archives), Gwangju, South Korea 1997.

This photo documentary project focuses on the Korean people through portraits. His photographs are combined with those of a Korean photographer (Choi Ok-soo) to offer a Western-Eastern perspective of documentation.

LeVall Art Gallery (solo show), Novosibirsk, Russia, April 4-17, 2002.

This project focuses on the pixel within the context of Abstractionism and Minimalism. The pixels or Pixelscapes – as Chambers calls them - conform with many of non-objective artists' works. These Pixelscapes are a revelation for him when compared to these non-objective works generated 40 years before the pixel and 80 years before the Digital Revolution.

Pscan Derivatives

PFG-2 (group show), Today Art Gallery, Beijing, China, November 4 - 10, 2005.

This project focuses on Pixelscapes that take on a kinetic identity through the utilization of the lens applet, allowing one’s vision to play on both fields (background and simulated foreground via magnification and movement) to establish a relationship - distant and close - between the two. It’s also interactive by placing the cursor on the lens and moving it about for closer study.

Ptone Derivatives

This project focuses on Pixelscapes that take on a kinetic identity through the utilization of the halftone filter and huerot applet, allowing one’s vision to absorb the color (rotation/pattern changes to evoke certain moods.

http://tomrchambers.com/ptonedvs.html

Public Domain Reconstruction

This project focuses on the gif file. There are an infinite number of animated images (gif files) in the public domain on the Internet, and Chambers reconstructs the purpose of the single gif file through background image utilization. This reconstruction produces a background of Kinetic (e) Art.

Retro Providence: 1985-1990

Corridor Gallery, City Archives, City Hall (sponsored by Providence City Archives), Providence, Rhode Island, U.S.A., October 14 - December 14, 2016.

Chambers returns to Providence to showcase a sampling of his coverage as Mayoral and City Photographer for Providence, 1985-1990. The exhibition comprises 60 prints of city activities and its people 26-31 years ago. The coverage over a six-year period is a direct result of a mayor’s presence and activity throughout the environs of a city. It is assignment-based via a press secretary’s office, City Hall.

The viewers of this exhibit are able to reflect on city environs/activities, and compare yesterday’s with today’s Providence. For those individuals who were a part of the coverage during that period of time and now, it will undoubtedly hold dear their involvement/participation that comprises this time capsule.

The project is similar to the HOT CITY exhibit that Chambers compiled when he worked for the City of Providence in 1989. At that time, American Photo magazine listed the exhibition in its "Notable Exhibitions" section in their July 1989 issue. http://tomrchambers.com/retro_prov.html
Southwest of Rusape: The Mucharambeyi Connection

Corridor Gallery (solo show), United States Information Service (USIS) (received a United States Government grant; officially opened by the U.S. Ambassador to Zimbabwe; and accepted as a part of the USIS Archives.), Harare, Zimbabwe, Africa, 1995.

This photo documentary project is in association with the Mucharambeyi family in Rusape, North East Zimbabwe and sponsored by U.S.I.S., Harare, Zimbabwe as the inaugural exhibition/event for the United States Information center (1995). The Mucharambeyi family attended, and Johnnie Carson, U.S. Ambassador to Zimbabwe, opened the exhibition.

Streak 16

This project appropriates Chambers’ piece, “360” through multiple framing (Web mechanics) to produce “Streak 16”. It is Connective Art in the sense that the viewer can manipulate the overall image by utilizing the vertical and horizontal scroll bars of each frame to create his/her version. When “Streak 16” is manipulated, its repetitive nature seems to be broken, but only in the sense of and due to change in position/placement - creating hybrids of Kinetic Art.

The Malevich Malady: Black Square Red Zone

The Pixel as Suprematist/Minimalist Art

This piece and others play on Suprematist variations of Kazimir Malevich's early works prior to "Black Square" after glitch treatment and magnification of the digital reproductions. They rival works in Suprematism, Abstraction, Minimalism, Geometric, and Color Field art movements. They are brought to the forefront via these early works to celebrate Malevich’s latent and ultimate creativity which gave way to Suprematism with the display of "Black Square" and other works in 1915 as part of the Last Futurist Exhibition of Paintings 0,10.

24th International Symposium Digital Art, and Online Gallery - D-ART - IV2020, Vienna 24th International Conference Information Visualisation - PART I@Vienna, Vienna, Austria, 28 - 31 July 2020. (D-ART Gallery)

These pixelscapes are similar to Color Field painting that emerged in New York City during the 1940s and 1950s. This movement places less emphasis on gesture, brushstrokes and action in favor of an overall consistency of form and process. In Color Field painting, color is freed from objective context, and it becomes the subject in itself ("Themes in American Art: Abstraction." National Gallery of Art, Web, May 9, 2010).

The self-portrait is utilized to project Chambers’ life experiences. His portrait remains constant with the experience (situation) indicated as a change or flux in the image. The accompanying text details his experience with the inclusion of links to the Internet for additional information. “Tom Series” is not only an artwork about Chambers’ life - biography (visual/textual) - but also a reference tool - a study of history through his existence. The constancy of the same portrait (Chambers' image) indicates a human being's existence within a world/an environment that's ever influencing and changing the psyche and at some point in time - later (twilight) years for this individual, the psyche begins to take control and evaluate the process.

Variations on the Dan Mask

An African traditional mask from the Dan Tribe, Eastern Liberia (National Gallery of Zimbabwe Permanent Collection: PC - 6400 - 0147) is the object for the photogram, and then manipulation of the non-exposed area generated from this original mask form to vary the look. There’s a transference from a traditional form to a contemporary one, or in other words, this contemporary treatment remains within the confines of the traditional form (through direct contact), and borders on Abstract Art that reduces natural appearances to simplified forms.

Wide-screen China

Captured (group show), Houston Institute For Culture, The Haven Center, Houston, Texas, U.S.A., October 6 - November 1, 2007.

This photo documentary project comprises black and white photographs in wide-screen format. Chambers uses this format reminiscent of the CinemaScope movies that impressed him when he was a child and cognizant of the popularity of wide-screen television in today's homes. The bit of distortion seen in most of the images creates a sense of drama with a focus on darks and lights to set a certain mood. There's an otherworldliness that seems to run through the series of photographs.

Windmills of the Mind's Eye

Chambers provided photo coverage of the Collection at the American Windmill Museum, Lubbock, Texas for one of the museum’s publications, and he was invited to mount a selection of his photographs as a permanent display. He takes great delight in this project since he grew up with windmills (wind pumps) and particularly the one that his grandfather used to pump water for his herd of cattle.

Yin Yang Future

Imagining the Future We Want (group show), VALISE Gallery, Vashon, Washington, U.S.A., September, 2011.

This project is in keeping with the "Digital Revolution", vis-à-vis, the iconic male and female font symbols that have been altered to move towards the need for humanity's change in thought - "Yin Yang" - the idea of balance.
